

Macky's Story

I was diagnosed with Breast Cancer in May of 2004. What followed was two surgeries, seven weeks of radiation and six months of chemotherapy. The support of family, friends and people I don't even know has been overwhelming. I have worked for Rogue Rods for 2 years and they have stood by me while going through my treatments, which made it easier to continue to work. My battle with cancer has made me a stronger person and life has a very strong meaning to me.... "to live each day to it's fullest." A positive attitude towards cancer is the best medicine a person can have. This disease is the greatest challenge I have ever had in my life and I know in my heart I will win the battle.

In interest of helping those with Breast Cancer, Rogue Rods has developed the Macky Special Fly Rod to honor her and help others during the recovery process.
